

Introductory Economics with Justice

You are invited to attend an online 10 week 'Introductory Economics with Justice' course commencing late January and concluding in April 2021. The course has been recently developed by the School of Philosophy and Economic Science, London.

Can viewing Economics as the study of human relations in society, through a prism of justice, fairness and natural law help us to better understand the world and our place in it? This course in economics with justice seeks to show how freedom and prosperity are possible for people everywhere, provided we follow natural and elemental laws and aim for fair outcomes in all our economic arrangements.

You have two opportunities to join this thought provoking, inter-active and stimulating course as it will be offered at two separate times for the 10-week period. NB. Class sizes are limited.
