DISCUSSION FOR ENQUIRING MINDS

An open invitation to anyone aged 18-30.

What do we value in our relationships? How do our relationships differ from one another? What value do relationships bring to our lives? How are we shaped by our relationships?

Time: 4pm Saturday 30th November 2024

Venue: Melbourne School of Philosophy
45 Riversdale Road, Hawthorn VIC 3122

This conversation gives us an opportunity to discuss relationships and what relationships bring to our lives. We will look at different philosophical views on relationships and explore how our perception of relationships have evolved over the ages.

“This is a rare opportunity to have a healthy discussion on topics that impact our generation” - Jordan

*“I really enjoyed the meeting last weekend, it was so thought provoking”
- Jess*

‘Conversations’ aims to create a space where ideas can be shared in a safe and encouraging environment. Somewhere to bring questions and concepts to discuss with others face to face. As well as discussing topics of immediate relevance to ourselves and those around us, we will practice the art of dialectic conversation.
